Russia's Top Police Officer Is Transferred

Kremlin Holds Mum On Future Career Of Ivan Serov

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union's top policeman, Gen. Ivan A. Serov, has been relieved of his job. The announcement in the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia today said he had been transferred to other duties but gave no hint of what they were.

Serov's successor as chairman of the Committee for State Security also was not announced.

Most foreign observers in Moscow believed Serov may perhaps have been given an even more important job. He has long been a friend and close associate of Nikita S. Khrushchev, who heads both the government and the Communist party.

(Some Western experts on Soviet affairs believed Serov had been demoted because the Izvestia announcement did not give his new post, the customary procedure when a Kremlin official is promoted.)

Serov, a 53-year-old army general, had become well known abroad in recent years for being in charge of security arrangements on Premier Khrushchev's trips. He was widely known earlier for directing the plan to liquidate anti-Communist elements in the Baltic countries in 1940.

Serov was last seen by Western correspondents at a Kremlin reception Nov. 10 for Wladyslaw Gomulka, head of the Polish Communist party. A slight, ruddy-faced man with penetrating blue eyes, he was usually friendly and informal in public, chatting freely with foreign diplomats and newsmen at receptions.

After having been closely identified with Soviet security organs almost from the beginning of his career, Serov got some of the powers of Lavrenty Beria after

Ohio Weatherman Says It Could Be Green Christmas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sounding like one who has received too many unexpected blows from the snows, the weatherman uttered a prediction—unofficial—today:

"It probably," he groaned, "will be a green Christmas."

While this doesn't exactly fit into the weather bureau's long range 30-day forecast for continued cold and intermittent snow, it is in keeping with the unexpected nature of this late fall season.

Although it's hard to believe when you're bending your back behind a snow shovel or inching the car along an icy thoroughfare, winter won't be there officially until Dec. 23.

But what Ohio is experiencing in the meantime is convincing enough for most. Today's cloudy, colder weather and flurries - to-heavy snowfall will give way Wednesday to increasing cloudiness, continued cold and probably more snow, at least north and central.

By the time the season's third major snow storm ends—probably this afternoon—one to six inches of new snow will cover the state, the weatherman says. The northeast, especially around Lake Erie, will probably bear the brunt of it.

Today's high is expected to be around 25 degrees, probably in the southeast. It got down to around zero in the west Monday night.

The weather's consequences are, as usual, both comic and tragic.

In no time at all, the orderly pattern of many a commuter and shopper's life was disrupted by delayed buses, bumper-to-bumper traffic and slippery going.

For traffic patrolmen, trying to keep traffic flowing during Monday night's rush hour, it was a nightmare. Most cities reported too many minor accidents to accurately count, including falls on icy pavements.

A prewinter blast of snow and cold gave a midwinter setting to broad areas from the Continental Divide to New England today.

Bitter cold knifed into Midwest sections as snow diminished in most areas west of the Mississippi Valley. The snow, however, continued in the Northeast. The worst snowstorm in history hit Oswego, N.Y., with a record fall of 33 inches in a 24-hour period. A state of emergency was declared for the Lake Ontario city.

Lowest temperatures of the season were reported in many parts of the snow belt from the Rockies to deep into the mid-Mississippi Valley and the Missouri Valley.

Below zero temperatures were common throughout Montana and the Dakotas and were reported as far south as central sections of Illinois and Indiana and in southern Iowa.

One of the icest spots was International Falls, Minn., on the Canadian border. The thermometer dipped to 28 degrees below zero, which was a slight improvement over Monday's 32 reading.

In South Dakota, it was -15 at Philip and -14 at Huron. Minnesota's Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul shivered in readings around 10 below and northward at Duluth, it was colder. Chicago had its coldest day since last February with a low of 6 below. Six inches of snow covered areas in the city and suburbs.

The storm which dumped snow falls ranging from more than a foot to three inches across the Rockies and Midwest areas reached New England during the night. The southern boundary of the snow belt was the Ohio River, southern Pennsylvania and the metropolitan New York area. More than two inches fell early in the night in New England.

Wheat Quota Case Dropped In U.S. Court

CLEVELAND (AP)—When he harvested 31 acres of wheat for his widowed sister in late July, 1956, James E. Marchbanks of Hanoverton, Columbiana County, was aware that Uncle Sam wanted to collect a $539 penalty on the wheat. But he didn't pay.

In federal court Monday, Judge James C. Connell heard Marchbanks' story and dismissed the action the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture had brought against him to collect for an alleged 24-acre over-quota harvest of 504 bushels at $1.07 a bushel.

Marchbanks was administrator of the estate of his brother-in-law, William E. Nutter, who died June 8, 1956. Late in the following month, Marchbanks was at the Nutter farm combining the wheat, George Pollock, of Lisbon, a field man for the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, testified.

"Sure, I combined the wheat," Marchbanks admitted when cross-examined. "My sister had just come home from the hospital with her fourth baby, and she couldn't do anything. The wheat was over-ripe and damaging."

Marchbanks said he took no pay for the work and nothing was charged against the estate. He said also that he bought a new home for his sister and has helped support the fatherless family.

The defense maintained that Mrs. Nutter had a surviving spouse's right under Ohio law to take title to the wheat and remove it from control of the estate administrator.

Lie Detector Tests Involve 3 in Beating

One Suspect Freed As Result of Trip To London Bureau

Police Chief Elmer Merriman today said that lie detector tests gave positive indication that three local men have knowledge of the fatal beating of Roy Thompson here Thursday.

Taking the tests yesterday at the London Bureau of Criminal Investigation were Charles Hayes, Logan St., Steven Hall, W. Main St. and Robert Binkley, E. Main St.

Chief Merriman said Binkley was released today. The release was based on evidence gained at London yesterday, the chief added.

According to Merriman and County Prosecutor Ray Davis, charges against the other two men will not be filed until an official report concerning the lie detector tests is received here. The recordings, along with other evidence, were to be investigated by BCI officials yesterday and today, the chief explained.

THOMPSON died Friday in Berger Hospital following the severe beating Thursday. Police said he suffered a fractured skull, three fractures of the jaw and a broken nose. According to the coroner's report, death was caused by a brain hemorrhage.

Chief Merriman said it appeared, along with other evidence, that following a drinking spree and quarrel at Hayes' residence on Logan St.

A pair of boots worn by Hall and a pair of shoes worn by Hayes were sent to London yesterday.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—There never has been an Air Force Academy cadet who stands 6 feet 6, weighs 239 pounds, and wears glasses. But there may be in the future.

The academy has increased cadet height limits from 6 feet 4 to 6 feet 6, and weight from 228 pounds to 239 pounds.

Applicants also may be accepted with distant and near vision in both eyes of 20-50, correctible to 20-20 with moderate refractive error, and with minor defects of color vision. Failure to pass depth perception tests no longer will disqualify an applicant.

Venezuela Riot Is Staged for Loser at Polls

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Thousands rioted in Caracas Monday night in support of a losing presidential candidate, threatening Venezuela's transition from dictatorship to a constitutional regime.

The rioters were supporters of Rear Adm. Wolfgang Larrazabal, head of the junta which took control of the government after the overthrow of dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez. In returns from Sunday's presidential election he was trailing former President Romulo Betancourt, head of the leftists but anti-Communist Democratic Action party.

Latest returns gave Betancourt 1,097,360 votes to 925,540 for Larrazabal. Rafael Caldera of the Christian Socialist party had 315,589 votes.

Larrazabal had accepted Communist backing in the campaign and carried the vote in Caracas overwhelmingly, but Betancourt piled up what looked like an insurmountable lead outside the capital.

Word that Betancourt appeared the winner brought Larrazabal supporters—many of them youths—pouring into the streets where seven months ago demonstrators had massed against U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Small groups clashed with police and tried to march on the headquarters of the Electoral Council, where the official vote count was in progress. Tear gas drove them off, but they continued to surge through downtown streets, tearing down Betancourt campaign posters.

In a 10-minute radio address, Larrazabal tried to calm the capital. Wait for the final election results and then support and respect the winner, he said.

Betancourt was rumored to be in hiding.

DiSalle Gets O'Neill Data

18 Reports Handed To Governor-Elect

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's governor and the man who beat him for a four-year term met face to face today for the first time since the Nov. 4 election.

The friendly conference took place in the Statehouse between Republican Gov. C. William O'Neill and Democratic Gov. - elect Michael V. DiSalle.

DiSalle and his future first assistant, Maurice J. Connell, walked from the Desher-Hilton Hotel to the governor's office carrying bulging brief cases.

Mrs. Myrtle DiSalle, who accompanied her husband from their home in Toledo, went to the Governor's Mansion to confer with Mrs. O'Neill. The DiSalle will move into the mansion after the Jan. 12 inauguration.

O'Neill called members of his cabinet for a briefing session with DiSalle at 11 a. m. Connell is meeting with Paul Tague Jr., one of O'Neill's assistants.

O'Neill turned over to his successor about 18 reports from department heads and commissions on governmental operations.

The governor expressed the hope that the reports will aid DiSalle in affecting an orderly transfer of the state administration Jan. 12 from the Republicans to the Democrats.

O'Neill said the state will have a 25 million dollar uncommitted cash surplus when DiSalle takes over Jan. 12. He said the surplus will exceed 40 million dollars by the end of January, but will shrink to only 6 1/2 millions by the end of June if present policies are continued.

DiSalle, in their first face-to-face meeting since the election, observed that O'Neill started his administration with a 48 million dollar balance.

"That means that you have been operating at a deficit," DiSalle said.

"No," O'Neill answered. "We inherited 40 million dollars in deficiencies. You can't charge us with that."

Continuing, DiSalle insisted: "You spent 40 million dollars more than revenues."

"O'Neill replied: "In our budget two years ago, we estimated the surplus June 30, 1959, would be eight million dollars. Actually, it will be 6 1/2 million dollars."

Adams' Friend Failed To Reply To Questioning

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal grand jury today indicted Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine on a charge of contempt of Congress.

The 18-count indictment was based on Goldfine's refusal to answer 22 questions put to him by the House Subcommittee on Legislative Oversight, which last summer investigated Goldfine's relationship with Sherman Adams, then assistant to President Eisenhower.

The committee heard testimony that Goldfine, an old friend of Adams, made valuable gifts to Adams and that Adams had contacted federal agencies investigating Goldfine enterprises.

The questions Goldfine refused to answer were mostly about his financial dealings with a Boston company he controls.

The House voted a contempt citation 379-8 on Aug. 13.

The law provides for maximum penalties of a year in jail and a fine of $1,000 for each count of contempt proven in court.

It was learned that the indictment was voted by the grand jury Monday while Goldfine attorneys were skirmishing in Federal Court in Boston over financial records which the millionaire industrialist had been ordered to turn over to the Internal Revenue Service in an income tax investigation.

Tax officials said the records produced were not complete, but Goldfine spokesmen pleaded they had insufficient time to get the papers together.

Goldfine's tilt with the subcommittee here occurred July 11 while the subcommittee was looking into the disposition of cases involving Goldfine companies by the Federal Trade Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The questions Goldfine refused to answer related to financial affairs of the Boston Port Development Co., in which he held the major interest.

In refusing to answer the questions, Goldfine claimed they were not pertinent to the investigation, and that they involved internal affairs of a corporation with which the subcommittee was not concerned.

The dissenters in the House vote on the contempt citation, all Republicans, took the same stand.

Adams acknowledged having an inquiry made about the East Boston case but denied he applied any pressure.

District court officials said Goldfine will be arraigned next Friday, Dec. 12.

DiSalle Gets O'Neill Data

18 Reports Handed To Governor-Elect

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's governor and the man who beat him for a four-year term met face to face today for the first time since the Nov. 4 election.

The friendly conference took place in the Statehouse between Republican Gov. C. William O'Neill and Democratic Gov.-elect Michael V. DiSalle.

DiSalle and his future first assistant, Maurice J. Connell, walked from the Deshler-Hilton Hotel to the governor's office carrying bulging briefcases.

Mrs. Myrtle DiSalle, who accompanied her husband from their home in Toledo, went to the Governor's Mansion to confer with Mrs. O'Neill. The DiSalles will move into the mansion after the Jan. 12 inauguration.

O'Neill called members of his cabinet for a briefing session with DiSalle at 11 a. m. Connell is meeting with Paul Tague Jr., one of O'Neill's assistants.

O'Neill turned over to his successor about 18 reports from department heads and commissions on governmental operations.

The governor expressed the hope that the reports will aid DiSalle in affecting an orderly transfer of the state administration Jan. 12 from the Republicans to the Democrats.

O'Neill said the state will have a 25 million dollar uncommitted cash surplus when DiSalle takes over Jan. 12. He said the surplus will exceed 40 million dollars by the end of January, but will shrink to only 6½ million by the end of June if present policies are continued.

DiSalle, in their first face-to-face meeting since the election, observed that O'Neill started his administration with a 48 million dollar balance.

"That means that you have been operating at a deficit," DiSalle said.

"No," O'Neill answered. "We inherited 40 million dollars in deficiencies. You can't charge us with that."

Continuing, DiSalle insisted: "You spent 40 million dollars more than revenues."

"O'Neill replied: 'In our budget two years ago, we estimated the surplus June 30, 1959, would be eight million dollars. Actually, it will be 6½ million dollars.'

Adams' Friend Failed To Reply To Questioning

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal grand jury today indicted Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine on a charge of contempt of Congress.

The 18-count indictment was based on Goldfine's refusal to answer 22 questions put to him by the House Subcommittee on Legislative Oversight, which last summer investigated Goldfine's relationship with Sherman Adams, then assistant to President Eisenhower.

The committee heard testimony that Goldfine, an old friend of Adams, made valuable gifts to Adams and that Adams had contacted federal agencies investigating Goldfine enterprises.

The questions Goldfine refused to answer were mostly about his financial dealings with a Boston company he controls.

The House voted a contempt citation 379-8 on Aug. 13.

The law provides for maximum penalties of a year in jail and a fine of $1,000 for each count of contempt proven in court.

It was learned that the indictment was voted by the grand jury Monday while Goldfine attorneys were skirmishing in Federal Court in Boston over financial records which the millionaire industrialist had been ordered to turn over to the Internal Revenue Service in an income tax investigation.

Tax officials said the records produced were not complete, but Goldfine spokesmen pleaded they had insufficient time to get the papers together.

Goldfine's tilt with the subcommittee here occurred July 11 while the subcommittee was looking into the disposition of cases involving Goldfine companies by the Federal Trade Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The questions Goldfine refused to answer related to financial affairs of the Boston Port Development Co., in which he held the major interest.

In refusing to answer the questions, Goldfine claimed they were not pertinent to the investigation, and that they involved internal affairs of a corporation with which the subcommittee was not concerned.

The dissenters in the House vote on the contempt citation, all Republicans, took the same stand. Adams acknowledged having an inquiry made about the East Boston case but denied he applied any pressure.

District court officials said Goldfine will be arraigned next Friday, Dec. 12.

Stocks Chalk Slight Gains In Trading

NEW YORK (AP)—Gas pipeline issues, drugs and selected stocks made good gains as the stock market staged a moderate overall advance in lively trading early this afternoon.

Pivotal stocks were up fractions to about a point. Special issues ran up gains stretching to 3 or 4 points. A scattering of losers peppered the list. The Big Three motors were easy with Ford off a fraction.

The natural gas and pipeline stocks were still celebrating the U.S. Supreme Court ruling which reversed a lower court in the Memphis gas case. The high court ruling permits gas suppliers to raise prices, pending investigation and possible refund, without awaiting approval of the Federal Power Commission.

El Paso Natural Gas and Tennessee Gas Transmission added more than a point to substantial gains of Monday. Southern Natural Gas rose a fraction. Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line erased an early gain and showed a slight fractional loss.

The opening of Pfizer was delayed 45 minutes in a buying rush inspired, Wall Streeters said, by renewed enthusiasm for the company's earnings, new products and proposed stock split. The price rose 4 1/4 to 110, later shading the gain by about a point.

Humphrey Gives Ike Briefing

Details of Senator's Khrushchev Talk Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) today gave President Eisenhower a confidential message from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev dealing with Russian nuclear explosions.

Humphrey, just back from Moscow, also told Eisenhower about secret Soviet developments in the field of rockets.

The senator gave the President an 80-minute oral report on the eight-hour conference he had with Khrushchev.

Afterward, Humphrey told newsmen his report to Eisenhower regarding Soviet nuclear explosions and developments in the rocket field are the two secrets which he had stated earlier Khrushchev had told him.

He added that the Soviet Premier had asked him specifically to pass on to Eisenhower the information dealing with Russian nuclear explosions.

Humphrey said Khrushchev also asked him to pass on to the President some suggestions dealing with the Berlin crisis. The senator said he personally regarded those suggestions as unacceptable to the Western Powers.

"I don't think we're going to make any progress politically with the Soviets for a long time," Humphrey told a news conference Monday. "No great political decisions are in the offing."

But he said the Soviet Union doesn't want a war for at least seven years, because war would ruin her plans for achieving development goals.

The senator was optimistic about chances of negotiating an East-West agreement to end nuclear tests, including an effective inspection system.

He saw less chance of a settlement of the Berlin dispute, which he said is "very serious and deep."

2 Staunch Segregationists Clash in 'Bama Vote Probe

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A dramatic conflict between two staunch Southern segregationists has marked the U.S. Civil Rights Commission inquiry into complaints of flagrant voting discrimination against Alabama Negroes.

One of the Southerners is youthful State Atty. Gen. John Patterson, governor-elect and leader of Alabama defiance of the commission's fact-finding excursion. The other is veteran John S. Battle, former governor of Virginia and a Southern member of the six-man commission.

After the federal group had spent several hours Monday persistently trying but generally failing to obtain voter registration records and testimony from officials of six Alabama counties, Battle made an unusual plea for better cooperation.

In a statement at the close of the first day of the commission's first public hearing, the tall, white-haired Virginian emphasized that no one believes more strongly than he in racial segregation as a way of life in the South.

But, he said, the Alabama officials are not making a good impression by what looks like an effort to cover up their actions on Negro voting.

He pleaded with them to reconsider, obey subpoenas to deliver their records and cease to withhold testimony lest "our enemies" capitalize on the situation.

Northern congressmen, he said, will use Alabama's defiant attitude as an argument for a tougher civil rights law. That, he reminded, "will react adversely to us in Virginia and to you in Alabama."

But Patterson would have none of it. In a bristling statement he rejected the cooperation appeal, declaring: "In fights of this nature there can be no surrender of principle to expediency. The time for retreating has come to an end."

He asserted that the Alabama officials have performed their duties according to the law and have nothing to hide. But, he went on, they are judicial officers and cannot legally comply with the commission subpoenas and orders.

The commission received abundant testimony from Negro witnesses—some of them highly educated faculty members of famed Tuskegee Institute — that they were denied the ballot in Macon County for no other reason than their race and color.

Stocks Chalk Slight Gains In Trading

NEW YORK (AP)—Gas pipeline issues, drugs and selected stocks made good gains as the stock market staged a moderate overall advance in lively trading early this afternoon.

Pivotal stocks were up fractions to about a point. Special issues ran up gains stretching to 3 or 4 points. A scattering of losers peppered the list. The Big Three motors were easy with Ford off a fraction.

The natural gas and pipeline stocks were still celebrating the U.S. Supreme Court ruling which reversed a lower court in the Memphis gas case. The high court ruling permits gas suppliers to raise prices, pending investigation and possible refund, without awaiting approval of the Federal Power Commission.

El Paso Natural Gas and Tennessee Gas Transmission added more than a point to substantial gains of Monday. Southern Natural Gas rose a fraction. Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line erased an early gain and showed a slight fractional loss.

The opening of Pfizer was delayed 45 minutes in a buying rush inspired, Wall Streeters said, by renewed enthusiasm for the company's earnings, new products and proposed stock split. The price rose 4 1/2 to 110, later shading the gain by about a point.

Humphrey Gives Ike Briefing

Details of Senator's Khrushchev Talk Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) today gave President Eisenhower a confidential message from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev dealing with Russian nuclear explosions.

Humphrey, just back from Moscow, also told Eisenhower about secret Soviet developments in the field of rockets.

The senator gave the President an 80-minute oral report on the eight-hour conference he had with Khrushchev.

Afterward, Humphrey told newsmen his report to Eisenhower regarding Soviet nuclear explosions and developments in the rocket field are the two secrets which he had stated earlier Khrushchev had told him.

He added that the Soviet Premier had asked him specifically to pass on to Eisenhower the information dealing with Russian nuclear explosions.

Humphrey said Khrushchev also asked him to pass on to the President some suggestions dealing with the Berlin crisis. The senator said he personally regarded those suggestions as unacceptable to the Western Powers.

"I don't think we're going to make any progress politically with the Soviets for a long time," Humphrey told a news conference Monday. "No great political decisions are in the offing."

But he said the Soviet Union doesn't want a war for at least seven years, because war would ruin her plans for achieving development goals.

The senator was optimistic about chances of negotiating an East-West agreement to end nuclear tests, including an effective inspection system. He saw less chance of a settlement of the Berlin dispute, which he said is "very serious and deep."

2 Staunch Segregationists Clash in 'Bama Vote Probe

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A dramatic conflict between two staunch Southern segregationists has marked the U.S. Civil Rights Commission inquiry into complaints of flagrant voting discrimination against Alabama Negroes.

One of the Southerners is youthful State Atty. Gen. John Patterson, governor-elect and leader of Alabama defiance of the commission's fact-finding excursion. The other is veteran John S. Battle, former governor of Virginia and a Southern member of the six-man commission.

After the federal group had spent several hours Monday persistently trying but generally failing to obtain voter registration records and testimony from officials of six Alabama counties, Battle made an unusual plea for better cooperation.

In a statement at the close of the first day of the commission's first public hearing, the tall, white-haired Virginian emphasized that no one believes more strongly than he in racial segregation as a way of life in the South.

But, he said, the Alabama officials are not making a good impression by what looks like an effort to cover up their actions on Negro voting.

He pleaded with them to reconsider, obey subpoenas to deliver their records and cease to withhold testimony lest "our enemies" capitalize on the situation.

Northern congressmen, he said, will use Alabama's defiant attitude as an argument for a tougher civil rights law. That, he reminded, "will react adversely to us in Virginia and to you in Alabama."

But Patterson would have none of it. In a bristling statement he rejected the cooperation appeal, declaring: "In fights of this nature there can be no surrender of principle to expediency. The time for retreating has come to an end."

He asserted that the Alabama officials have performed their duties according to the law and have nothing to hide. But, he went on, they are judicial officers and cannot legally comply with the commission subpoenas and orders.

The commission received abundant testimony from Negro witnesses—some of them highly educated faculty members of famed Tuskegee Institute—that they were denied the ballot in Macon County for no other reason than their race and color.

State School Board Eyes First Grade Age Minimum

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Board of Education is asking to be put in a position something like that of an umpire on a close baseball play at homeplate. No matter what the decision, someone's going to be unhappy.

In the state board's case, it's the problem of setting a uniform age limit for children to enroll in Ohio's schools. The state board voted Monday to ask the Legislature for permission to study the problem and set a uniform age.

State law says six, but the date when a youngster must have reached that age is left to the discretion of local school boards.

At the same time, the board approved a statement by its president, Elliott E. Meyers, asserting in effect that it is powerless to act on a plea that Roman Catholic nuns be prohibited from teaching in the state's public schools.

A copy of a resolution urging enactment of a law to "prohibit persons officially related to a religious order from teaching in public schools of Ohio" was sent the state board by the Greater Cleveland Ministerial Assn.

It is the result of a Nov. 3 ruling by Atty. Gen. William Saxbe that nuns may wear religious garb while teaching in Waterford (Washington County).

The ministers' association says it will ask the next Legislature to change the law to bar persons from a religious order from teaching in the public schools, hence the resolution.

Meyers' letter said the state board has jurisdiction only in training and certifying teachers. Hiring and firing, subject to legis-

The attorney general, Meyers went on, is the board's legal advisor and must be looked to for interpretation of the law.

In one of its busiest sessions in months, the state board:

Increased the salary of W. Dwight Darling, assistant superintendent of public instruction, from $10,000 to $14,000 a year effective Dec. 16.

Reversed its original decision in January by passing a motion (tabled last month) to rescind directions to State Supt. E. E. Holt ordering a school reorganization survey in Fayette County. Such a survey would have determined whether the present two school districts—one for the city of Washington Court House and another, called Miami Trace, for the rest of the county—should be combined or remained separate.

Approved a total $577,065 of the 1956-57 budget for operating schools for the deaf and blind in Columbus.

Agreed on an 18-point legislative program which the state board will recommend to the next General Assembly. The recommendations include:

Amendment of the school foundation law to increase teacher salaries, retirement and sick leave allotments, etc. and a 406.9 million budget for operating schools, including bus purchases and school transportation, in 1959-61.

Approval of school bond issues and building levies by majority vote at any election. A special majority of 55 or 60 per cent, depending on whether it is a special or general election, is now required.

Permit school operating levies, once voted, to continue until repealed by referendum vote. They now must be revoked every five years, causing an estimated 700-800 school elections in the state.

Restore to county boards of education the right to reorganize districts, subject to disapproval of the majority of voters in the affected area.

Include the public school system in any plan for a statewide educational television network, as recommended by the governor's Commission on Education Beyond the High School.

In other decisions, the state board:

Granted Borromeo Seminary to Wickliffe the right to confer the bachelor of arts degree.

Foreigners Contribute To U.S. Bombed School

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP) — People throughout the Western Hemisphere have donated cash and food for an integrated school in nearby Osage that was wrecked by a bomb Nov. 10.

Principal James Twigg said Monday $843 in cash and $405 worth of food for the school's hot lunch program have been received. The largest single donation, $50 cash, came from a man in Maracaibo, Venezuela. The smallest, 5 cents, was sent by a youngster from Orinda, Calif.

Several persons were questioned about the bombing, but no one has been charged.

Warning Out On Rosy 1959 Predictions

Research Institute Lists Some 'Dangers' It Sees Developing

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—A warning against letting the crush of rosy predictions for 1959 lead you into trouble is sounded today. It comes from those who hold that the danger signs are there even though they, too, believe the general outlook is bright.

For the individual business the danger lies mostly in how its top men react to the predictions—whether they base their plans on their hopes rather than on their reasoned expectations.

The Research Institute of America lists some of the dangers it sees gathering force. It says it gets much of its data from confidential reports of 30,000 firms it serves, as well as from official statistics and indicators.

The institute says its general prediction for 1959 is definitely on the bright side, but here are the dangers that could cause trouble before the middle of next year:

1. In many of its reporting companies production has jumped faster than demand. This is natural since in the early months of the slump output was cut back more steeply than sales fell. The danger: Unless demand rises more than is now indicated, many industries could find themselves with unsold stocks building up again. Result: Another slowdown in production—another slump.

2. In some companies inventory rebuilding plans have gone beyond current sales. Danger: If sales expectations don't pan out, orders to suppliers could be cut below levels justified by actual sales at the time.

3. Believe that a general price increase is just around the corner is leading some businessmen to over-ordering. Danger: When the price rises are delayed, future orders will be deflated sharply—an other slump.

4. Retail sales figures just now are misleading because they were dropping a year ago. Favorable comparisons don't prove a new boom is here.

5. Basic economic indicators are behaving erratically now. And the interruption of a clear direction should lead business executives to use caution in setting future policy.

What seems to worry the institute most is: "What businessmen are experiencing today is an early stage of a prolonged recovery from a greatly reduced level of activity. And it is occurring in an atmosphere less favorable to a new wave of prosperity than late 1954 or late 1949." So the pattern of this recovery is different from the earlier ones.

New Money for Old

Everybody is no doubt aware that a great deal of currency is manhandled in a year's time in the United States. It would be an interesting travelogue to follow the myriad paths traveled by a dollar bill as it performs its function as a tool of barter.

In the course of daily, often hourly, exchanges, much of this currency soon resembles the tattered remnants of a battle flag. To prevent the economy of the nation from thus dissipating into a pile of confetti, the Treasury Department has a currency redemption division which constantly revitalizes the paper money supply with crisp, new notes.

From banks and other collection centers in every city and town, worn-out money finds its way into the hands of the redemption section. Not the least of the section, however, is replacing currency mutilated in the most bizarre manners.

Specifically charged by law with the redemption of paper money "which has been mutilated in any manner," providing it is still identifiable, the Treasury spares no effort in piecing together piles of the most hopelessly damaged currency. Among the 50,000 who last year benefited from the money-menders' art were owners of the usually high quantities of moneys damaged by fire, explosion and flood.

There are many more interesting cases than these, however—such as the housewife who forgets to remove her household money from the oven before baking a cake, or the miser who digs up his hoard from the back yard only to find his currency has degenerated into a mound of pulp.

From animals' stomachs to the ashes of trash barrels, currency has come to the redemption division in many forms, but all of it is replaced providing microscopic examinations or chemical analyses prove the remains to be those of genuine U. S. currency.

Regardless of its relative buying power, there is scarcely a product made by anyone which is as conscientiously backed as U. S. currency, even when it has been reduced to ashes.

Fuel for the Weapons Fire

American rejoicing over the successful firing of an Atlas ICBM missile 6,300 miles has been tempered by the revelation that the Soviet Union has developed an atom-powered airplane.

Actually, the rejoicing should not be long or great anyway, for the Atlas firing merely means that the U. S. has caught up with the Russians who are reported to have fired a similar ICBM many months ago. How many do the Soviets have stockpiled now?

It is a bit incongruous, in a way, that the news of the nuclear plane and ICBM success should come almost simultaneously. The intercontinental ballistic missiles have been touted as replacements for manned aircraft in offensive weaponry.

Of course, it isn't that simple. There are many roles for aircraft that missiles cannot fill. It is for these, plus an interim weapons system until missiles become completely reliable, that the nuclear plane is useful.

The civilian observer doesn't really have enough facts about the weapons race to arrive at solid conclusions. But on the surface facts alone, it would seem that the U. S. still is far behind in both the long-range missile and nuclear-plane fields.

No Low Man on Totem Pole

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—The writer is no longer low man on the Hollywood totem pole.

"In the old days a writer was kind of like a guy in uniform before Pearl Harbor," said Daniel Taradash. "He was afraid to go into the best hotels."

"But now he is a person of importance in the industry. Everybody at the moment is paying him lip service. Production heads are getting the idea that writers can do more than just sit at a typewriter. Their advice is sought. They are now allowed—even welcomed—on the set."

Taradash, who now also directs and produces films, is currently one of the highest paid writers in the field.

The film writing minimum is now $350 a week. But Taradash's typewriter is now so highly regarded that he can demand and get a "big chunk more than $100, 000" for writing a picture, plus a share of the profits.

Taradash, a Harvard law graduate, rang the bell in 1938 in his first assignment in Hollywood, as co-author of the script for "Golden Boy."

Dan, a pleasant-faced man of 45 with thinning hair, made movie history when he insisted on getting a percentage of the profits for adapting "From Here to Eternity," a script that won him an Oscar.

A slow and painstaking craftsman, Taradash has turned out only about a dozen movies in 20 years. He takes from six months to a year to finish a script.

"During the percolating period I may sit for two or three weeks and not write a line," he said. "In the old Hollywood days that would have been unthinkable."

"A writer then was supposed to write—not think."

"I also have another unusual clause in my contract—that they can't see the script at all until I complete it unless I choose to let them," he said.

"You can get murdered if you let a producer have a third of the script, while you're still working on the rest. He can start picking it to pieces. Writers can easily be confused, bulldozed and talked out of an idea."

Taradash doesn't share the idea that Hollywood stifles creative talent, and that a man is only as good as his last picture.

"It's an optimistic place," he said. "They like success and like to remember it. Your flops and the stumbling blocks of your career they tend to overlook and forget."

"That attitude is one of the pleasantest things about Hollywood."

Good Teachers Cost Money

By George Sokolsky

The American people can have as competent or as incompetent a school system as they pay for. They can have a cheap school system or a correctly priced school system.

In this cost, I do not figure fancy buildings, with Grecian urns that collect rubbish and landscaping that serves no purpose. A school building can look like a factory, but if the quality of the teaching is high, the marking tough, the students disciplined and the teachers sufficiently paid the children will be benefited.

Teachers must be employed full time and should be accountable to the school system for their time on an annual basis. That time may include periods of additional study.

Eugene A. Meyer, a reader, writes me as follows:

"Your intelligence took a count of 10 when you stated, better pay makes better teachers. How can more money make a person better than what they are? And how can you honestly figure a teacher on a 52-week year basis when they actually work on the average of 40 weeks a year?"

The receipt of more money does not improve the person, but it might attract more competent men and women to the job. When a stenographer can receive more money than a teacher and only has to put up with one tough guy, her boss, instead of a daily mob of hell raisers, the young lady goes into an office instead of into a school.

The shortage of teachers is not accidental; it is the result of a cause, and that cause is too little pay in a competitive world. If there is no money to pay teachers more and to build more buildings, some of which may not be needed, the proposition is sound that we can do without the buildings.

Meyer's contention that a teacher is a part-time worker, getting paid for 52 weeks and working only 40 weeks is, of course, nonsense.

To be of value, a teacher must have time to read and study. In those schools, where the merit system prevails, teachers who have an M.A. are paid more than those who have a B.A. The same is true of a Ph.D. In a word, the teachers who devote themselves to systematic study in a university benefit by it.

Those who attend summer sessions at universities will find that a very large part of the student body are teachers who give of their time to improve themselves and therefore to be more useful to their pupils.

Teachers in elementary grades should, and many do, take trips about the United States or Europe, which while it is pleasant work, is also of tremendous advantage to the pupils, who learn from their teachers what the world is like. The teacher needs to be broad-minded and the child must feel that the teacher is an experienced and broad-minded person.

Money will not solve all problems. The standards for employing teachers ought to be raised. Tenure should not protect the decreasingly competent. Teachers who have unfortunately suffered from breakdowns or other psychiatric difficulties should be eliminated from the school system in the interest of the child. But there can be no reason for a teacher earning less than a stenographer or than a model for a dressmaker.

I recently needed to employ some additional help and girls applied who had studied at our best colleges. They might have made excellent teachers, but the profession seems to have lost caste among these young ladies.

First of all, they dislike the substitute system which has become a trick to avoid granting job security. Secondly, they find that the pay is less than they can get on other jobs. Thirdly, they are afraid, physically afraid, of undisciplined children and I might also say, undisciplined parents who come into school buildings to give the teachers a bad time because their children cannot differentiate between a classroom and the school yard. It is a very tough job in the elementary years particularly as many parents add to teachers' troubles.

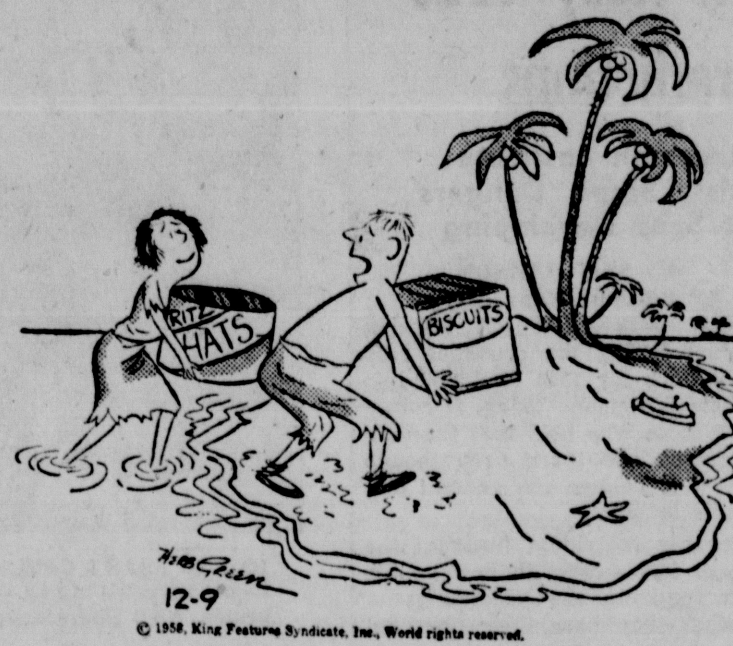

Many parents believe that the impudence of children should go unpunished. It is not long before the child who is impudent to the teacher is impudent to the parent. The condoning parent usually has a very bad time and deserves it. Her wailings do not help the teacher, however, who is paid to teach and not to police errant kids.

Careful with Those Cards!

By Herman N. Bundesen, M. D.

It's about time for that annual holiday chore—sending out Christmas cards.

It's nice to receive these messages of good wishes and it makes you feel nice to send them to friends and relatives. At the same time, however, it is a lot of work. Just ask any housewife a couple of weeks from now.

I'm sorry that I can't help you with this big job, but I may be able to make it a bit easier—and safer—for you.

For one thing, don't lick all those envelopes! Even if the gummed edges tasted like chocolate—and you know that they don't—it would be both unpleasant and unwise to lick them in order to seal the envelopes.

A paper cut can be a wicked thing. And it is so easy for the tongue to be sliced by the thin edges of a stiff envelope.

Now this isn't some far-fetched possibility. It happens often enough to cause the National Bureau of Standards to issue an anti-licking warning in a bulletin on "Safety for the Household."

If you must use your tongue,

just press it gently against the gummed edge in several places.

Best method of wetting an envelope is to use a small moistened sponge. You can get one for a small sum in just about any stationery store.

By the time you finish addressing all the envelopes and signing all the cards your signature is likely to be an unrecognizable scrawl—unless you practice good penmanship.

Even for a simple job such as this you should move your whole arm when you write.

I know the tendency of many people is to write by moving only the thumb and index finger and maybe the wrist, but in time this will tend to make your writing jerky. Moreover, you might develop writer's cramp. When you don't write properly, you see, you throw a great amount of strain on a small group of muscles.

And before you know it you will be gripping your pen tighter than is necessary and your hand will become tired and begin to ache. Hardly the way to get into the proper Christmas spirit, is it?

M. S.: Are sugar-free fruit juices good for a diabetic to drink?

Answer: That depends upon your doctor's advice.

As a rule, sugar-free juices are suitable for diabetic diets. Since they contain carbohydrates and calories, these must be taken into consideration in calculating the diet.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—The biggest weakness in what the Democratic Advisory Council recommends is that the two most powerful Democrats in Congress—Speaker Sam Rayburn and Sen.

Lyndon Johnson—are not members of the council.

The council includes some of the very top Democrats—like former President Harry S. Truman, Adlai Stevenson, New York's Gov. Averell Harriman—but when it was created two years ago Rayburn and Johnson, both of Texas, refused to join.

If they had accepted membership, they would have committed themselves to follow through on what the council recommended. By standing aloof they can pretty well pick and choose what they want to push or fight for.

Since the Democrats lost the presidential election in 1956, the party was left without any real, single head for the next four years. The council attempts to assert some leadership.

Thus the program it outlined Sunday for Democrats in Congress to follow in 1959 was a statement of goals, hopes and intentions. It's been called the Democrats' "State of the Union message."

Next month, as usual at the beginning of each session of Congress, President Eisenhower will present his own State of the Union message, outlining his programs and ideas for 1959.

Both houses of Congress will listen attentively and then suit themselves about what they will accept, reject, modify or expand from all the proposals Eisenhower makes.

The same will be true of the congressional attitude towards the Democratic Advisory Council's ideas.

Members of Congress, and this certainly goes for their leaders, are very jealous of the rights, privileges and prerogatives of the legislative branch of the government.

They reserve to themselves the right to make the final decisions on any proposals from the executive branch, headed by Eisenhower, or from any outsider or group of outsiders, like the Democratic Advisory Council.

Rayburn, boss of the House Democrats, and Johnson, leader of the Democrats in the Senate, are both conservative. The Democratic Advisory Council's recommendations were both more liberal and more far-ranging than anything being talked about by Rayburn and Johnson.

For example: The council sug-

A SALESMAN brought his son, a TV addict, into a restaurant. Sonny promptly yanked a water pistol out of his holster, and shot a stream into the face of a startled diner. "Don't mind the kid," soothed the father. "You ought to see what he does to people he suspects of rustling!"

Fifty miles from home, embarked on a vacation tour, Mrs. Jacobs suddenly cried, "Stop the car! I forgot to turn off my electric iron before we locked up the house."

"Cheer up," counseled Mrs. Jacobs' husband, Walter. "It won't burn long. I forgot to turn off the faucet in the bathtub."

Matrimonial mutterings: HUSBAND: I don't know why, but you can't seem to make pastry like my mother. WIFE: I don't know why, but you can't seem to make dough like my father.

Careful with Those Cards!

By Herman N. Bundesen, M. D.

It's about time for that annual holiday chore—sending out Christmas cards.

It's nice to receive these messages of good wishes and it makes you feel nice to send them to friends and relatives. At the same time, however, it is a lot of work. Just ask any housewife a couple of weeks from now.

I'm sorry that I can't help you with this big job, but I may be able to make it a bit easier—and safer—for you.

For one thing, don't lick all those envelopes! Even if the gummed edges tasted like chocolate—and you know that they don't—it would be both unpleasant and unwise to lick them in order to seal the envelopes.

A paper cut can be a wicked thing. And it is so easy for the tongue to be sliced by the thin edges of a stiff envelope.

Now this isn't some far-fetched possibility. It happens often enough to cause the National Bureau of Standards to issue an anti-licking warning in a bulletin on "Safety for the Household."

If you must use your tongue,

just press it gently against the gummed edge in several places.

Best method of wetting an envelope is to use a small moistened sponge. You can get one for a small sum in just about any stationery store.

By the time you finish addressing all the envelopes and signing all the cards your signature is likely to be an unrecognizable scrawl—unless you practice good penmanship.

Even for a simple job such as this you should move your whole arm when you write.

I know the tendency of many people is to write by moving only the thumb and index finger and maybe the wrist, but in time this will tend to make your writing jerky. Moreover, you might develop writer's cramp. When you don't write properly, you see, you throw a great amount of strain on a small group of muscles.

And before you know it you will be gripping your pen tighter than is necessary and your hand will become tired and begin to ache. Hardly the way to get into the proper Christmas spirit, is it?

Question and Answer

M. S.: Are sugar-free fruit juices good for a diabetic to drink?

Answer: That depends upon your doctor's advice.

As a rule, sugar-free juices are suitable for diabetic diets. Since they contain carbohydrates and calories, these must be taken into consideration in calculating the diet.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—The biggest weakness in what the Democratic Advisory Council recommends is that the two most powerful Democrats in Congress—Speaker Sam Rayburn and Sen.

Lyndon Johnson—are not members of the council.

The council includes some of the very top Democrats—like former President Harry S. Truman, Adlai Stevenson, New York's Gov. Averell Harriman—but when it was created two years ago Rayburn and Johnson, both of Texas, refused to join.

If they had accepted membership, they would have committed themselves to follow through on what the council recommended. By standing aloof they can pretty well pick and choose what they want to push or fight for.

Since the Democrats lost the presidential election in 1956, the party was left without any real, single head for the next four years. The council attempts to assert some leadership.

Thus the program it outlined Sunday for Democrats in Congress to follow in 1959 was a statement of goals, hopes and intentions. It's been called the Democrats' "State of the Union message."

Next month, as usual at the beginning of each session of Congress, President Eisenhower will present his own State of the Union message, outlining his programs and ideas for 1959.

Both houses of Congress will listen attentively and then suit themselves about what they will accept, reject, modify or expand from all the proposals Eisenhower makes.

The same will be true of the congressional attitude towards the Democratic Advisory Council's ideas.

Members of Congress, and this certainly goes for their leaders, are very jealous of the rights, privileges and prerogatives of the legislative branch of the government.

They reserve to themselves the right to make the final decisions on any proposals from the executive branch, headed by Eisenhower, or from any outsider or group of outsiders, like the Democratic Advisory Council.

Rayburn, boss of the House Democrats, and Johnson, leader of the Democrats in the Senate, are both conservative. The Democratic Advisory Council's recommendations were both more liberal and more far-ranging than anything being talked about by Rayburn and Johnson.

For example: The council suggested making the law tougher to give the government a stronger hand in protecting civil rights; it suggested the Senate soften its rules to make it easier to smash filibusters.

Again and again the Southern Democrats have used the filibuster—which, under present Senate rules, gives them the right to almost unlimited debate—to block civil rights legislation.

But the fact remains the new Congress, where the Democrats have an overwhelming majority, will have to look to Rayburn and Johnson for leadership.

Both men in the past have shown an amazing ability to get from their fellow Democrats and even from many Republicans cooperation and approval on the various pieces of legislation they wanted to see get through.

For both men next year the job of shepherding the legislation they want may be tougher, if only because there will be more Democrats in Congress.

Nevertheless, Rayburn and Johnson will be key men. Therefore in large measure the program produced by the Democratic Advisory Council will depend on Rayburn and Johnson.

Santa and the ELF BOY

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

"Charlotte," asked the Professor, "did you send for help?"

SYNOPSIS: Having found a note calling for help, Esteban has gone to the castle on the hill to see what the note could mean. As he reached the door there was a loud crash and the only light in the castle went out. The door slowly opens.

CHAPTER FIVE THE STRANGE PROFESSOR

Esteban stood petrified by the awful crash and the sudden darkness in the castle. The door opened slowly and a voice from the blackness said:

"Come in, please."

Esteban tried to move but his legs wouldn't work. He wished he could run away.

Suddenly a hand came out of the darkness and grasped his arm.

"Come in, whoever you are. Don't stand there in the rain."

"That crash!" stammered Esteban. "What was that?"

"Oh," said the voice, "that was the door slammed shut behind him. An instant later a candle was lighted and Esteban found himself looking into the kind, sad eyes of a handsome man.

"There now! Feel better?" asked the man.

"Much better," nodded Esteban with relief.

"I am Professor Szpilki. Who are you?"

Esteban started to say he was an elf, or used to be an elf, but then he thought perhaps he better not mention that. So he said, "I am a shoeshine boy and I found a note in a shoe that came from here."

The professor turned away and lighted more candles. "And what did the note say?" he asked.

As the hall grew brighter Esteban felt safer. He began to feel silly at repeating such a message. But he said, "Well, the note asked for help."

Professor Szpilki looked startled. "What an odd message," he exclaimed. "But my little girl and I live here alone and the note could not have come from here."

Esteban looked around the great hall. It was beautiful and peaceful. He turned to the professor.

"Has your little girl a pair of red velvet slippers embroidered in gold?"

"Why, yes," said Professor Szpilki. "She insisted I send them for repair though they didn't really need it. That was weeks ago. I must call for them."

"They're the ones, then," exclaimed Esteban. "That's where I found the note."

"Nonsense! I'll call my daughter."

He pulled a cord and a bell rang far overhead. A few moments later a curly-haired girl ran down the great stairs.

"Charlotte," said the professor sternly, "This boy says he found a note in your slipper calling for help. Do you know anything about such a note?"

Charlotte's eyes widened.

"No," whispered the child.

"There!" cried her father turning to Esteban. "You see?"

"I'm sorry I bothered you," mumbled Esteban opening the door. And he thought, What a fool I have been!

"Goodbye," he said from the steps and he turned to wave.

Then his mouth fell open because suddenly he saw a look of fear in the child's eyes and her lips formed the silent words,

"Come back! Come back!"

As Esteban stared in astonishment, the professor said cheerily, "Goodbye, my boy," and the door was firmly closed.

Women Plagued By Propaganda

Marriage Counselor Deplores Scare Ads

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor

The modern wife is a creature harassed by propaganda and harried by TV commercials.

All day long, from the minute she opens her morning newspaper until she turns off the late-late show at night, she is beset by ominous commands, warnings and downright threats, such as these:

"When you use a deodorant, are you SURE?"

"Don't drive your husband away from home with detergent hands!"

"When he kisses you, WHAT ABOUT YOUR BREATH?"

"If you want to hold your husband, better use the perfume that never fails, ATOMIC APPLE BLOSSOMS."

"If you don't buy MAGNETIC LIPSTICK NOW — your husband will look for it on another girl."

"Does your husband rush home at night? IF NOT, LOOK OUT!"

"Give him our HAPPY PILLS and enjoy a new outlook on marriage."

All these and more combine to give the average wife a feeling of desperate insecurity. She feels that if she doesn't look like Marilyn Monroe, dress like Mrs. Harrison Williams, entertain like Elsa Maxwell and smell like a perfume shop, she's in danger of losing her happy home.

Most of this is a lot of nonsense, says Hugo A. Bourdeau, a Baltimore marriage counselor, who writes in the current issue of Coronet magazine:

"The modern American woman is being greatly oversold on the importance of sex in marriage."

He believes that women all over the country are developing jitters, ulcers and nervous breakdowns trying to live up to the movie versions of sex appeal.

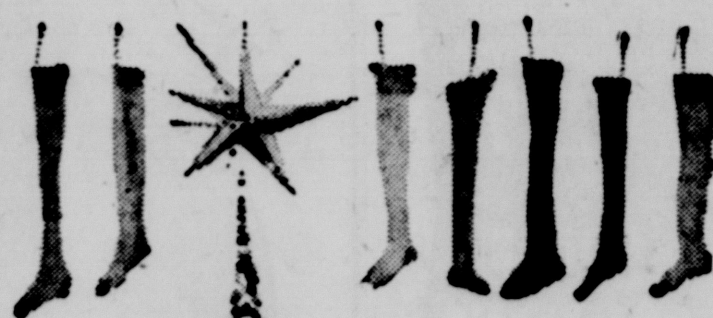

Companionship and teamwork, hoping and building together, are some of the most important ingredients of a happy marriage.

And if you can go through hard times together and still be friends, you're a success.

Tom Brown, Now 43, Unable To Shake Juvenile Casting

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This may come as a surprise to movie producers, but Tom Brown is no longer eligible to play halfback for the Culver or Annapolis varsity.

Tom may look like a juvenile in the rah-rah films on the late, late TV show. But he's nearing 44, has white hair and a sandy mustache and is mature of face.

"But I can't get producers to think of me this way," the actor complained. "When my name is mentioned in casting, they generally say 'he's too young.'"

He's making some progress, however. He has good roles in two forthcoming Western films and will be seen on two upcoming CBS shows "Have Gun Will Travel" and "December Bride."

If his luck continues, Tom might make it.

But it has been a rugged go. Tom's fight to make a living in the acting business has been a long and often losing one.

How do you figure it? The name of Tom Brown is familiar to most movie goers. He's a handsome, capable performer.

"One of my problems was that I wasn't under contract to a studio when World War II broke out," he explained. "My career was going great guns until I left for the Army."

He started as a private, rose to major and served with distinction at SHAEF headquarters and in combat at the Bulge. But when he returned to Hollywood, he found he was a forgotten man.

The studios had to take back the returnees who had been under contract. Tom was out in the cold. Just as he was getting his career back in good shape again, the Korean War broke out. Tom's outfit, the 40th Division, was activated, and he shipped out for combat duty in Korea. His hair started turning white then.

"When I got back, I had to start all over again," he recalled. "It was brutal. In my first year I made a total of $750, the returns from one television show."

Nobel Prize Winners Arrive

Only Boris Pasternak To Skip Ceremony

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Winners of 1958 Nobel Prizes gathered today for the prize giving. The Russians sent the three winners of the physics prize but, as promised, literary winner Boris Pasternak stayed home.

Another blast was loosed at Pasternak, author of the novel "Dr. Zhivago," by Soviet writers at a Moscow meeting Sunday.

The prizes will be awarded at ceremonies Wednesday.

Pasternak's three countrymen arrived to share in the physics prize of $41,420. The Soviet scientists are P. A. Cherenkov, I. M. Frank and Igor Tamm.

Coming in early today from London were the British winner of the prize in chemistry, Frederick Sanger, and Dr. Joshua Lederberg, who shares the medicine and physiology prize with U.S. colleagues Dr. George Beadle and Dr. Edward L. Tatum.

Beadle arrived Sunday and Tatum was expected later today. Lederberg is from the University of Wisconsin, Tatum from the Rockefeller Institute in New York and Beadle from the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena.

Father Dominique Georges Pire, Belgian priest who won the peace prize, arrived in Oslo, Norway, to receive his prize there Wednesday. The peace prize is awarded by a five-man committee from the Norwegian Parliament. The other winners were picked by Swedish groups.

Pasternak at first accepted his literature prize, then turned it down under pressure at home. But the committee making the award said he would be listed as the 1958 winner, although the $41,420 was put back in the Nobel fund. His diploma and gold medal are in a safe, to be given him if he ever comes to Sweden.

Yule Log Candle Holders Project for Junior Women

Someone said, what about making Christmas Log candle holders, so they did. However, it wasn't as simple as that. When Mrs. Richard Pettit suggested the logs as a project for Circleville Junior Woman's Club, it looked like a good thing and if they could make 100 and sell them the profit would be a great help to the Club's Scholarship Fund. First, Mrs. Pettit explained, everyone should try to find some logs, they should be two or four inches in diameter, have bark intact and be straight of course.

The members looked, but few logs were forthcoming, then the members enlisted the help of their husbands and things began to look better. As the logs cut by Harry Turner, Ted Wolfe, Stanley Spring and Richard Pettit began to mount on the Pettit's lawn, the neighbors began to wonder if they were heating with wood exclusively this winter, but the logs soon took on an entirely different appearance. To make the story amusing there should have been an incident involving one kind husband climbing out on a limb and sawing himself off, but this didn't happen. However, the wood cutters did learn that in going up in a tree to cut large branches for the logs it was better to go to the top and cut as they came down instead of cutting as they went up, after one of the group was nearly stranded because he had cut the branches on which he climbed to the top of the tree.

Many times since Circleville Junior Woman's Club was organized more than ten years ago, the members have been prompted by the wolf at the door to get out and organize another fund raising project to finance some service which the group has enthusiastically approved. As is the experience with all groups some projects which might raise hundreds of dollars didn't even pay expenses, but the group felt obligated to continue their good works so out they went to try something else.

For several years members had suggested selling popcorn or other refreshments at the night baseball games, finally last spring they decided to do it, but as fate would have it, we had a very rainy season and night after night more than their enthusiasm was dampened.

One of the club's projects which was written up in Program Notes a nationally circulated publication for clubwomen dealt with the club's inability to arrive at a decision to try any one project so after much discussion of the club's financial needs it was decided that each member should raise $5.00 in any way she saw fit. The ways were many and varied; one member helped with the inventory at the implement business in which her husband is associated, others did baby sitting and sewing, some took advantage of their fame as bakers of pecan pies, bread, rolls or cakes and one made a lucky guess at the horse races.

Older members of the club remember one project which was never intended to raise much money, but which was profitable as well as a terrific headache. The Children's plays put on by the Clare Tree Major theatrical group were sponsored as an effort to provide live theater for children who might not have an opportunity to see it otherwise. Each spring the chairman went sleepless for weeks because the full house which was needed to pay the expenses could be wiped out by an epidemic of measles, flu or a sudden snow storm.

One year the first performance was delayed while school superintendents checked weather reports following a heavy snow and decided whether they should risk sending buses loaded with children in to Circleville for the play, another year one school was closed by measles and flu and one bus load of children didn't come. Another year it was planned to have children from nearby city schools walk to the theater in a group escorted by members of the club, a down-pour of rain spoiled that and another year the performance was scheduled for the Cliftona Theater and because of a broken water pipe backstage was shifted to the Grand on the morning of the play. Children really hung from the rafters that year due to a sell out of tickets for the larger theater. However, in a peak year, as many as 2100 children saw the play when three performances were scheduled.

A variety show, using local people in amusing roles—a doctor as a hillbilly musician, an optometrist and clerk of courts as members of a "baby" quartet and club members in black face minstrel numbers was both fun and profitable for the club several years ago.

However, projects come and go and each year the club manages

Yule Log Candle Holders Project for Junior Women

Someone said, what about making Christmas Log candle holders, so they did. However, it wasn't as simple as that. When Mrs. Richard Pettit suggested the logs as a project for Circleville Junior Women's Club, it looked like a good thing and if they could make 100 and sell them the profit would be a great help to the Club's Scholarship Fund. First, Mrs. Pettit explained, everyone should try to find some logs, they should be two or four inches in diameter, have bark intact and be straight of course.

The members looked, but few logs were forthcoming, then the members enlisted the help of their husbands and things began to look better. As the logs cut by Harry Turner, Ted Wolfe, Stanley Spring and Richard Pettit began to mount on the Pettit's lawn, the neighbors began to wonder if they were heating with wood exclusively this winter, but the logs soon took on an entirely different appearance. To make the story amusing there should have been an incident involving one kind husband climbing out on a limb and saving himself off, but this didn't happen. However, the wood cutters did learn that in going up in a tree to cut large branches for the logs it was better to go to the top and cut as they came down instead of cutting as they went up, after one of the group was nearly stranded because he had cut the branches on which he climbed to the top of the tree.

Many times since Circleville Junior Women's Club was organized more than ten years ago, the members have been prompted by the wolf at the door to get out and organize another fund raising project to finance some service which the group has enthusiastically approved. As is the experience with all groups some projects which might raise hundreds of dollars didn't even pay expenses, but the group felt obligated to continue their good works so out they went to try something else.

Cage Action Calls For Heavy Card

Basketball in Pickaway County and area high schools features another heavy schedule this week.

Two games are slated tonight, 11 Friday night and five Saturday night. Several of the tests are league affairs in the respective counties.

Tonight's schedule lists Pick-

away at Stoutsville in a sectional encounter and Good Hope at New Holland in a Fayette County bout.

Friday's card promises some spirited competition in the Pickaway County loop. The docket slates Ashville at Scioto, Walnut at Atlanta, Williamsport at Darby and Jackson at Pickaway. Salt-creek will have a meeting with its alumni.

INDICATIONS are that the Scioto-Ashville test will be a thriller. Scioto, rolling along with a 3-0 record, may meet a rejuvenated Bronco five.

Ashville dropped its first three games of the season, but showed signs of coming alive in Saturday's 73-48 win over West Jefferson.

Another feature tilt will be the Williamsport-Darby battle. The Trojans have won four in a row, including a decision over Ashville, and will be looking for number five.

Williamsport, a hot and cold team, can be counted on to give the Trojans a stern contest. Walnut, winning its first game Saturday night, will meet an aggressive and capable Atlanta five which owns a 3-3 record. Jackson and Pickaway, both winless in league play, will slug it out to get on the victory side of the ledger.

In Ross County League play, its Centralia at Paint Valley and Huntington at Kingston. In Fairfield County its New Holland at Madison South.

FAIRFIELD County action lists Stoutsville at Rushville and Pleasantville at Amanda. Amanda makes a trip to New Lexington St. Aloysius Wednesday night. Laurelville will meet Rock-bridge in a Hocking County League contest Friday night.

Saturday tests send Ashville to Jonathan Alder for a Darby Valley loop, affair, Chillicothe Central Catholic to Darby, Carroll to Monroe, Centralia to Saltcreek and Scioto to Bloomingsburg.

Northwestern Seen Power in Big 10 Cage

Wildcats Chalk Third Win in Row as Irish Quintet Is Defeated

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A new college basketball era may be dawning for Northwestern long a stepchild among Big Ten titans. Meanwhile, once-mighty Kansas, a perennial Big Seven threat, faces lean days this season without Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain.

Northwestern, picked with Purdue as the Big Ten preseason favorites, is justifying the evaluations thus far. The Wildcats, 10th in the first Associated Press weekly poll, turned back Notre Dame, No. 11 in the listings, 69-63 Monday night.

The victory was Northwestern's third in a row.

Kansas, No. 7, bowed to upstart Denver 73-60 for its first setback after victories over Rice and Canisius. The 7-foot Chamberlain joined the Harlem Globetrotters after two seasons at Kansas.

Joe Ruklicker for 30 points as Northwestern snapped Notre Dame's streak of 18 straight victories at home. The lead changed hands 13 times and the score was tied 12 times before a pair of jump shots by Phil Warren put the Wildcats in front to stay.

Unheralded Denver spurred for 42 points in the second half after leading 31-29 at the intermission to humble Kansas.

Only two other members of the top 10 saw action. Kentucky, No. 2, turned on the power in the second half to throttle Duke 75-64. Sid Cohen led the way with 19 points. Eighth-ranked Mississippi State, behind Bailey Howell's 29-point barrage, walloped Arkansas State 72-57.

North Carolina (No. 13), leading at halftime by just one point, began to click after the intermission and routed Virginia 83-61 with Harvey Salt hitting for 19 points. Michigan State (No. 15) outclassed Butler 72-46. Johnny Green sparked the Spartans with 18 points.

Marquette, No. 17, lost to Nebraska 62-60 despite a second-half rally that just fell short. The Cornhuskers led 33-26 at halftime. SMU, No. 18, easily disposed of Wisconsin 81-63. St. John's of New York, tied for 20th place, led all the way to wallop Bridgeport 98-56.

BOARD OF STRATEGY — Talking things over with Coach Dick Snouffer are Circleville High School's three returning lettermen from last year's squad. From left they are Asa Elsea, Captain Don Rowland, Walt Arledge and Snouffer. Arledge has been sidelined so far this season with an injury suffered during football season. The Tiger cagers go after their second win in four starts when Washington C. H. comes here Friday night.

Cincy Bearcat '5' Voted Top Cage Outfit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The University of Cincinnati, which achieved a top 10 ranking in basketball for the first time last season, and perennially strong Kentucky, 1958 NCAA champion, are the choices of the experts as the teams to beat this season.

In the first Associated Press poll of the season, Cincinnati's Bearcats were a solid No. 1 and Kentucky a strong second. These ratings were based on the results of games through last Saturday, Dec. 6, and on the opinions of 102 participating sports writers and broadcasters.

Cincinnati's high rating unquestionably was based in part on the fact that the Bearcats still have All America Oscar Robertson while such stars of last season as Wilt Chamberlain and Elgin Baylor have gone on to pro ball.

The Bearcats were given first place on 38 of the 102 ballots and amassed a total of 834 points on the usual basis of 10 for each first place vote, 9 for second, etc.

Kentucky drew 20 first-place votes and 695 points. Kansas State, with only 10 firsts to 17 for West Virginia, edged the Mountaineers for third 61 to 63.

Completing the first 10 were North Carolina State, Tennessee, Kansas, Mississippi State, St. Louis and Northwestern. All were unbeaten through Saturday.

The top 10, with first-place votes in parentheses:

Pettit Emerges As Top Scorer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks produced 105 points in four games last week to displace rookie Elgin Baylor of the Minneapolis Lakers as the leading scorer in the National Basketball Assn.

Pettit, the 1955-56 scoring champion, has compiled 583 points in 20 games, figures released by league headquarters disclosed today. His 29.2 average also is tops.

Baylor, who only played one game last week, dropped to second with 535 points in 21 games. Paul Arizin of the Philadelphia Warriors, a two-time scoring leader, ranks third with 516 in 20 games. Arizin was fourth a week ago.

Guard Named Miami's Most Valuable Player

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — John Drew, 205-pound guard from Brecksville who overcame early season injuries, is Miami's most valuable football player of 1958. His selection was announced at a sports dinner here Monday night. The husky senior was a defense standout in the nine-game Miami schedule in which Miami shut out three opponents posting a 6-3 record.

'Gray Eagle' of Baseball, Tris Speaker, Dies at 70

HUBBARD, Tex. (AP) — Tris-tram (Tris) Speaker, the famed "Gray Eagle" of the major leagues, died Monday and baseball mourned the passing of one of its greatest stars.

A heart attack claimed the man who was called the finest center fielder of all time. He died after a fishing trip at Lake Whitney, 30 miles west of his home here.

From the high echelons and from the bushes of baseball came messages of sorrow. Speaker was lauded for the tremendous contribution he made to the game he loved so well that he played it for 340 months.

The body was brought to Hubbard and is at the Wolfe Funeral Home.

Interment will be in Fairview Cemetery where his father and mother and other kinsmen are buried.

Speaker and a fishing crony, Charles Vaughn, had pulled their boat into the dock after an afternoon on Lake Whitney. The 70-year-old member of Baseball's Hall of Fame collapsed and died. Dr. John Latham of Whitney, the attending physician, certified on Speaker's death certificate that the cause was coronary occlusion.

Speaker had had one previous heart attack—in 1954. Last August he entered a Cleveland hospital for observation as a precautionary measure. He had been experiencing pains in his arms.

But Mrs. Speaker said he had been feeling well lately, going fishing three or four times a week. "He liked to be outdoors," she said.

Surviving are his widow and two sisters, Mrs. Alma Lindsey of Abilene, Tex., and Mrs. Pearl Scott of Hubbard.

Speaker was a great left-handed hitter with a lifetime major league batting average of .344 in 22 seasons with the Boston Red Sox, Cleveland Indians, Washington Senators and Philadelphia Athletics. His highest average was .389 in 1925. He also was a great defensive player. He was on three world championship teams — Boston in 1912 and 1915 and Cleveland in 1920. He managed the latter team from 1919 to 1926.

Speaker started in professional baseball in 1906 with Cleburne of the Texas League. The day he signed a contract he was "fined" $10.00. Doak Roberts, president of the Cleburne club, told about it years later.

Roberts had driven in his bright new buggy to the field where Speaker was playing a semipro game. He called Tris over to talk contract and Speaker, wearing baseball spikes, climbed onto the hub of the buggy. Roberts noted he had scraped some of the paint off so he signed Speaker to a contract at $40 a month. Roberts had meant to make it $50, but held back the $10 to repair the buggy.

Speaker started as a pitcher but couldn't get the other side out. The Cleburne club was going to release him but the owner, noting that Speaker was a fine hitter, kept him and sent him to the outfield. He went on to major league glory.

Durelle Says Fans To See Bloody Fight

MONTREAL, Que. (AP) — Yvon Durelle thinks his title fight with light heavyweight champion Archie Moore is going to be such a great battle that he'd like to see it himself.

"The fans want to see a bloody fight and they'll get it from me," said the rugged fighting fisherman who gets his crack at able Archie in the Montreal Forum Wednesday night.

"I don't think it will go to a finish," Durelle said. "It will end in the 11th or 12th round for one of us. I'm going to throw everything I've got into it. I've got to get close to him to pitch. He's got to come close to fight."

"It's going to be a corker. The customers don't pay to see me dance and I can't dance. I'm going to win or they're going to carry me out."

That was as far as the 29-year-old Canadian and British Empire light heavyweight champion would go today in predicting the outcome of Canada and Montreal's first world title fight in five years.

Surprisingly, Moore didn't make a flat prediction. He is the 14-5 favorite to make good in his seventh defense of the crown he won nearly six years ago from Joey Maxim.

All old Archie would say was that he hoped to break the all-time knockout record and that he hoped eventually to become the light heavyweight ruler with the longest reign.

Moore holds the knockout record jointly with the late Young Stribling, a heavyweight contender of some 25 years ago. Each has scored 126 knockouts.

Venezuelan Named As Redleg Coach

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Redlegs' new third base coach is Reggie Otero, 43, successful manager of Latin-American baseball teams in recent years.

The Reds picked him Monday. He is currently at the helm of Venezuela's Valencia team, a pennant winner last year and in first place now in the winter league.

Otero broke into pro baseball in 1935 and moved around in the minors until 1945 when he played with the pennant-winning Chicago Cubs. For the past two years he has coached the Reds' Monterey club in the Mexican League.

Cage Action Calls For Heavy Card

Basketball in Pickaway County and area high schools features another heavy schedule this week.

Two games are slated tonight, 11 Friday night and five Saturday night. Several of the tests are league affairs in the respective counties.

Tonight's schedule lists Pick-

away at Stoutsville in a sectional encounter and Good Hope at New Holland in a Fayette County bout.

Friday's card promises some spirited competition in the Pickaway County loop. The docket states Ashville at Scioto, Walnut at Atlanta, Williamsport at Darby and Jackson at Pickaway. Salt-creek will have a meeting with its alumni.

INDICATIONS are that the Scioto-Ashville test will be a thriller. Scioto, rolling along with a 3-0 record, may meet a rugged roadblock thrown up by a rejuvenated Bronco five.

Ashville dropped its first three games of the season, but showed signs of coming alive in Saturday's 73-48 win over West Jefferson.

Another feature tilt will be the Williamsport-Darby battle. The Trojans have won four in a row, including a decision over Ashville, and will be looking for number five.

Williamsport, a hot and cold team, can be counted on to give the Trojans a stern contest.

Walnut, winning its first game Saturday night, will meet an aggressive and capable Atlanta five which owns a 3-3 record. Jackson and Pickaway, both winless in league play, will slug it out to get on the victory side of the ledger.

In Ross County League play, its Centralia at Paint Valley and Huntington at Kingston. In Fairfield County its New Holland at Madison South.

FAIRFIELD County action lists Stoutsville at Rushville and Pleasantville at Amanda. Amanda makes a trip to New Lexington St. Aloysius Wednesday night.

Laurelville will meet Rock-bridge in a Hocking County League contest Friday night.

Saturday tests send Ashville to Jonathan Alder for a Darby Valley loop. affair. Chillicothe Central Catholic to Darby, Carroll to Monroe, Centralia to Salter Creek and Seto to Bloomingburg.

Northwestern Seen Power in Big 10 Cage

Wildcats Chalk Third Win in Row as Irish Quintet Is Defeated

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A new college basketball era may be dawning for Northwestern long a stepchild among Big Ten titans. Meanwhile, once-mighty Kansas, a perennial Big Seven threat, faces lean days this season without Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain.

Northwestern, picked with Purdue as the Big Ten preseason favorites, is justifying the evaluations thus far. The Wildcats, 10th in the first Associated Press weekly poll, turned back Notre Dame, No. 11 in the listings, 68-63 Monday night.

The victory was Northwestern's third in a row.

Kansas, No. 7, bowed to upstart Denver 73-60 for its first setback after victories over Rice and Canisius. The 7-foot Chamberlain joined the Harlem Globetrotters after two seasons at Kansas.

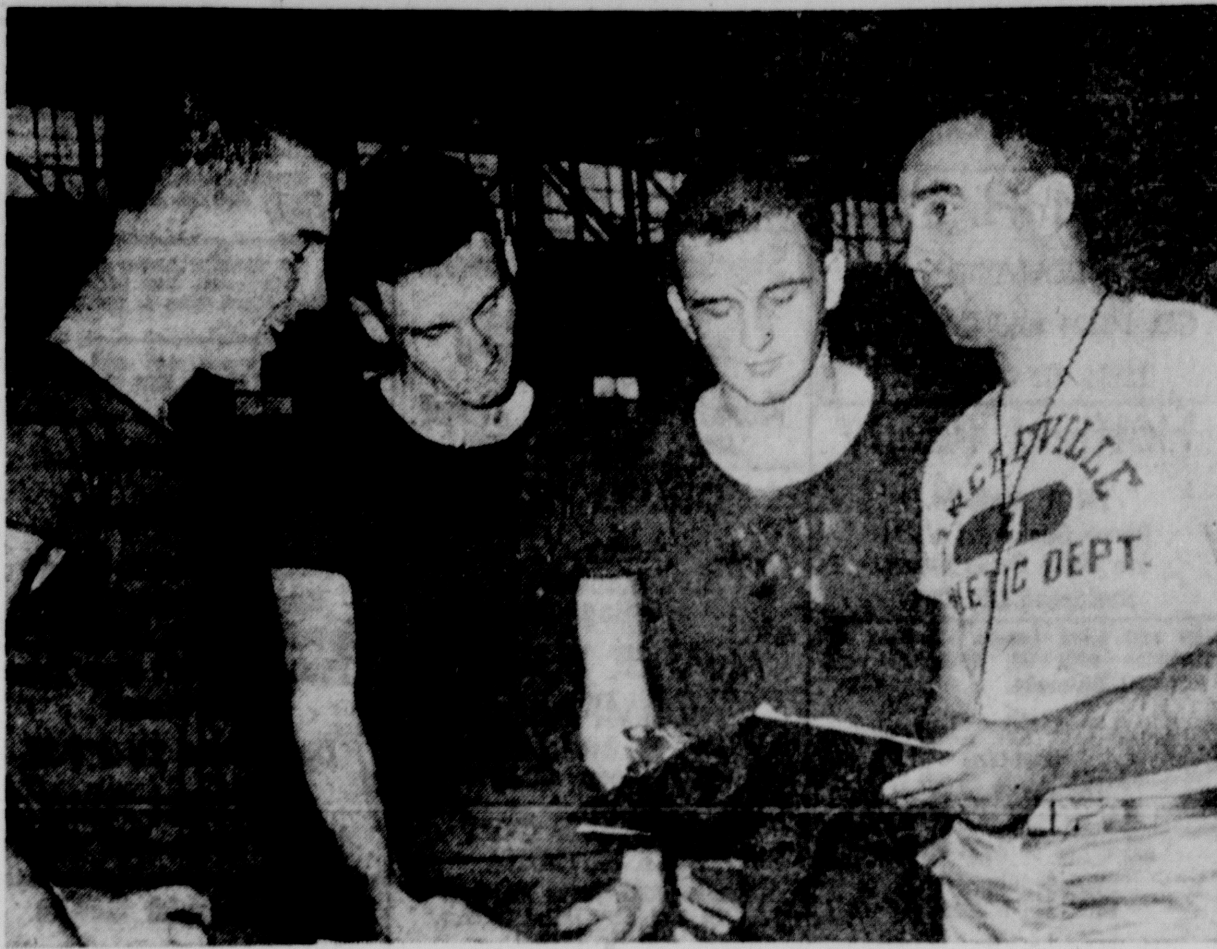

Joe Ruklick clicked for 30 points as Northwestern snapped Notre Dame's streak of 18 straight victories at home. The lead changed hands 13 times and the score was tied 12 times before a pair of jump shots by Phil Warren put the Wildcats in front to stay.

Unheralded Denver spurred for 42 points in the second half after leading 31-29 at the intermission to humble Kansas.

Only two other members of the top 10 saw action. Kentucky, No. 2, turned on the power in the second half to throttle Duke 78-64. Sid Cohen led the way with 19 points. Eighth-ranked Mississippi State, behind Bailey Howell's 29-point barrage, walloped Arkansas State 72-57.

North Carolina (No. 13), leading at halftime by just one point, began to click after the intermission and routed Virginia 83-61 with Harvey Salt hitting for 19 points. Michigan State (No. 15) outclassed Butler 72-44. Johnny Green sparked the Spartans with 18 points.

Marquette, No. 17, lost to Nebraska 62-60 despite a second-half rally that just fell short. The Cornhuskers led 33-26 at halftime. SMU, No. 18, easily disposed of Wisconsin 81-63. St. John's of New York, tied for 20th place, led all the way to walloop Bridgeport 98-56.

BOARD OF STRATEGY — Talking things over with Coach Dick Snouffer are Circleville High School's three returning lettermen from last year's squad. From left they are Asa Elsea, Captain Don Rowland, Walt Arledge and Snouffer. Arledge has been sidelined so far this season with an injury suffered during football season. The Tiger cagers go after their second win in four starts when Washington C. H. comes here Friday night. (Staff Photo)

Cincy Bearcat '5' Voted Top Cage Outfit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The University of Cincinnati, which achieved a top 10 ranking in basketball for the first time last season, and perennially strong Kentucky, 1958 NCAA champion, are the choices of the experts as the teams to beat this season.

In the first Associated Press poll of the season, Cincinnati's Bearcats were a solid No. 1 and Kentucky a strong second. These ratings were based on the results of games through last Saturday, Dec. 6, and on the opinions of 102 participating sports writers and broadcasters.

Cincinnati's high rating unquestionably was based in part on the fact that the Bearcats still have All America Oscar Robertson while such stars of last season as Wilt Chamberlain and Elgin Baylor have gone on to pro ball.

The Bearcats were given first place on 38 of the 102 ballots and amassed a total of 834 points on the usual basis of 10 for each first place vote, 9 for second, etc.

Kentucky drew 20 first-place votes and 695 points. Kansas State, with only 10 firsts to 17 for West Virginia, edged the Mountaineers for third 61 to 63.

Completing the first 10 were North Carolina State, Tennessee, Kansas, Mississippi State, St. Louis and Northwestern. All were unbeaten through Saturday.

The top 10, with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. Cincinnati (38)	834
2. Kentucky (20)	695
3. Kansas State (10)	641
4. West Virginia (17)	634
5. N. C. State (5)	363
6. Tennessee (2)	335
7. Kansas	334
8. Mississippi State (9)	177
9. St. Louis	151
10. Northwestern	148

The second 10: Notre Dame 130; Auburn 127; North Carolina 112; St. Mary's (Calif.) 101; Michigan State 91; Xavier (Ohio) 85; Marquette 77; Southern Methodist 69; Indiana 60; Oklahoma State; and St. John's (N.Y.) 56 each.

TITLE FIGHT—The world's light heavyweight king, Archie Moore, puts his title on the line against Yvon Durelle, the Canadian challenger, Wednesday, December 10, in Montreal in a bout which will be televised. Moore, who began fighting in 1936, has had 204 bouts in his long career. Durelle, who has been fighting for 12 years, has had 98 bouts. (Central Press)

YVON DURELLE

Wrong Turn Here

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—It wasn't for lack of school spirit that Indianapolis Broad Ripple High School's football team didn't hear many cheers as it lost 20-13 at Richmond, Ind. It was because Broad Ripple's four cheer leaders had taken a wrong turn on the highway en route to the game and found themselves at the wrong end of the state at kickoff time.

A Weighty Fish

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Indigestion may have killed a big mackinaw trout found on Middle Piney lake in Wyoming. State game and fish department officials said the stomach of the 26-pound fish contained a large ball of fish line, several large lead sinkers, three spinners, one minnow hook, two regular hooks, one swivel and several bones.

The 1959 PGA championship will be held July 29-Aug. 2 at Minneapolis.

KAYO KIDO—Something new has been added to boxing's attractions in LaMar Clark, Ut., heavy who kayoed three opponents in one night three weeks ago and then knocked out six more in a similar session just the other evening. Clark, who has won 26 straight, will next appear on the Toyshop Fund show in Cleveland December 15 when he will be served three foes.

Briton To Test Webb in London

LONDON (AP)—Terry Downes, British middleweight champion, will attempt tonight to collect on a bet he lost two years ago.

Downes, a former U.S. Marine, meets Spider Webb of Chicago, third-ranked challenger for Sugar Ray Robinson's world title, in a 10-round bout at Wembley Stadium. Both fighters hope it will lead to a championship bout.

For Downes, there's an additional incentive. While Downes was still a Leatherneck, Webb fought Pat McAteer, then the British titleholder, in Chicago. The bout was televised into Downes' Marine camp at Quantico, Va. Terry wagered $105 on his countryman, and when McAteer lost he paid out.

BRITON TO TEST WEBB IN LONDON

LONDON (AP)—Terry Downes, British middleweight champion, will attempt tonight to collect on a bet he lost two years ago.

Downes, a former U.S. Marine, meets Spider Webb of Chicago, third-ranked challenger for Sugar Ray Robinson's world title, in a 10-round bout at Wembley Stadium. Both fighters hope it will lead to a championship bout.

For Downes, there's an additional incentive. While Downes was still a Leatherneck, Webb fought Pat McAteer, then the British titleholder, in Chicago. The bout was televised into Downes' Marine camp at Quantico, Va. Terry wagered $105 on his countryman, and when McAteer lost he paid out.

Wrong Turn Here

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—It wasn't for lack of school spirit that Indianapolis Broad Ripple High School's football team didn't hear many cheers as it lost 20-13 at Richmond, Ind. It was because Broad Ripple's four cheer leaders had taken a wrong turn on the highway en route to the game and found themselves at the wrong end of the state at kickoff time.

A Weighty Fish

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Indigestion may have killed a big black inaw trout found on Middle Piney lake in Wyoming.

State game and fish department officials said the stomach of the 26-pound fish contained a large ball of fish line, several large lead sinkers, three spinners, one minnow hook, two regular hooks, one swivel and several bones.

The 1959 PGA championship will be held July 29-Aug. 2 at Minneapolis.

KAYO KIDO—Something new has been added to boxing's attractions in LaMar Clark, unbeaten Cedar City, U.I., heavy who kayoted three opponents in one night three weeks ago and then knocked out six more in a similar session just the other evening. Clark, who has won 26 straight, will next appear on the Toyshop Fund show in Cleveland December 15 when he will be served three foes.

New Bell Phone Rate Schedule Handed PUCO

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—If you are one of Ohio Bell Telephone Co.'s million-and-a-half customers, you'll read the result of a current rate case in future phone bills. Ohio Bell filed a compromise rate schedule with the Utilities Commission Monday. It's a compromise, because the company scaled down its original request for a 28-million-dollar annual increase in rates that it says should bring in about $16,750,000 more annually. That $16,750,000 goes on the bills of Ohio customers. Home phone users in about 200 cities and towns face proposed increases ranging from 20 cents to $1.05 a month. Business rates would be upped 70 cents to $2.15. This is before taxes.

New Bell Phone Rate Schedule Handed PUCO

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—If you are one of Ohio Bell Telephone Co.'s million-and-a-half customers, you'll read the result of a current rate case in future phone bills. Ohio Bell filed a compromise rate schedule with the Utilities Commission Monday. It's a compromise, because the company scaled down its original request for a 28-million-dollar annual increase in rates that it says should bring in about $16,750,000 more annually. That $16,750,000 goes on the bills of Ohio customers. Home phone users in about 200 cities and towns face proposed increases ranging from 20 cents to $1.05 a month. Business rates would be upped 70 cents to $2.15. This is before taxes.
